

France: Angela Lequenne

Location: Paris
Nationality: Italian
Languages: French / Italian / English

Angela has over 25 years' experience in the travel, hospitality and service sectors (the last 20 years based in Paris), providing coaching and training for leading international brands. In 2011 she formed her own coaching consultancy, working across Europe.

She facilitates both individual and team coaching sessions. She has a wealth of experience delivering team coaching to large groups (up to 70 people) and has supported clients through corporate culture assessments and change, meeting facilitation, team building and vision and mission statements.

Her individual coaching sessions help clients achieve a clear focus on a variety of topics including personal management, career development, leadership skills, setting personal goals and clarifying values. Angela has supported clients through all manner of situations from a period of crisis or change, a merger or reorganisation of a team, to career conversions.

Angela prides herself on having strong interpersonal skills, being open-minded and multi-cultural, customer and service oriented, curious and a quick learner with a problem-solving attitude.
